DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 8/20/04 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 2-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The subject matter which was not described in the original specification was the first and second electrode not adapted to deliver a first and second series of stimulus pulses to the dorsal and ventral roots, respectively (claim 11), and transmitting the first and second series of stimulus pulses to the ventral and dorsal root while not transmitting the first and second pulses to the dorsal and ventral roots, respectively (claim 19). The original specification did not state that the "electrodes" are not adapted to deliver the first and second pulses to particular roots. It is unclear how or what structure in the electrodes prevents the pulses from being delivered. In addition, the pulses will be transmitted to dorsal and ventral roots when stimulating the ventral and dorsal roots, respectively, since both roots are located in the same sacral nerve (it is suggested to focus the claims on the simultaneous “stimulus pulses” and how they stimulate the particular dorsal and ventral roots).

In addition, any negative limitation or exclusionary proviso must have basis in the original disclosure. The mere absence of a positive recitation is not basis for an exclusion. Any claim containing a negative limitation which does not have basis in the original disclosure should be rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement (see MPEP 2173.05 (i)).

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 11-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 11, line 6, “a first series” is vague and should be “a second series” since the wherein statement states that the second pulses are delivered to the second electrode.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection necessitated by amendment. It is suggested to amend the claims to positively recite the stimulation of the dorsal and sacral roots and claim the pulse parameters that are simultaneously applied to the dorsal and sacral roots (although, those new limitations will need to be further searched and considered).
